Mason County Life

MTA customers rely on volunteers

By Adria Shopping Bell

Some organizations still have a volume of office space.

Director of Parks and Recreation, Dr. Lisa Brown Rassett said she молодолы a variety of programs for the public to enjoy. The Mason County Senior Center is open to anyone interested in staying active and staying in shape. The center offers a variety of activities, including aerobics, yoga, and Tai Chi. There are also opportunities for community service and other volunteer work.

The Mason County Recreation Department is a great place to start. They offer a variety of programs for all ages, including sports, arts, and crafts classes. They also have a program called "Rec for Kids," which offers a variety of activities for children. The department is located at 400 W. Main St., Mason. For more information, call (262) 835-3700.

The Mason County Library is another great place to volunteer. They have a number of programs for the public to enjoy, including a variety of classes and workshops. They also have a program called "Book Buddies," which pairs children with a volunteer who reads with them. The library is located at 101 S. Main St., Mason. For more information, call (262) 835-3700.

The Mason County Historical Society is another great organization to consider. They have a number of programs for the public to enjoy, including a variety of classes and workshops. They also have a program called "History on the Go," which brings history to your inbox. The society is located at 101 S. Main St., Mason. For more information, call (262) 835-3700.

The Mason County Animal Shelter is another great organization to consider. They have a number of programs for the public to enjoy, including a variety of classes and workshops. They also have a program called "Pet Partners," which pairs pets with a volunteer who helps them get exercise. The shelter is located at 101 S. Main St., Mason. For more information, call (262) 835-3700.

The Mason County United Way is another great organization to consider. They have a number of programs for the public to enjoy, including a variety of classes and workshops. They also have a program called "Volunteer Connection," which helps people find volunteer opportunities. The United Way is located at 101 S. Main St., Mason. For more information, call (262) 835-3700.